This architectural rendering shows a modern building complex. On the left is a tall, white, multi-story tower with a grid-like facade. To its right is a lower, three-story building with a brown brick facade and a grey gabled roof. The central courtyard is a lush green space with winding paths, trees, and various garden beds. The entire complex is surrounded by a white base structure. The text labels are in French and describe the different parts of the project.
